EXPERT AFFIDAVIT OF P. DOSHI, T. JEFFERSON, P. GOTZSCHE, AND C.
HENEGHAN

We, Peter Doshi, Thomas Jefferson, Peter Gøtzsche, and Carl Heneghan, state as follows:

1. We submit this affidavit in support of Plaintiffs' Motion for a preliminary injunction. We have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein and, if called to testify, each of us could competently testify as to the following:

EXPERIENCE & CREDENTIALS

2. I, Peter Doshi, hold a PhD, and I am an Associate Professor with Tenure in the Pharmaceutical Health Services Research Department at the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy.¹ I teach a required course in the PharmD curriculum, "Medical Evidence," which trains students in skills necessary to critically appraise the scientific literature. I research the drug and vaccine approval process, how the risks and benefits of medical products are communicated, and how to improve the credibility and accuracy of evidence synthesis and biomedical publications. At the University of Maryland, I lead the RIAT Support Center which aims to accelerate the correction of the scientific record of clinical trials by making clinical trial publications more accurate and more complete, addressing the problems of publication bias and reporting bias. I have received national recognition for my work on clinical trial data transparency.² I am also an associate editor of The BMJ (formerly, the British Medical Journal), which is roughly equivalent to the Journal of the American Medical Association in the United States.³ (Attached as Exhibit A is a copy of my CV.) I have studied influenza policy since around 2004. I have many peer-reviewed publications on the topic (see Exhibit A), and my PhD dissertation⁴ is on the topic of CDC and WHO influenza control policies (primarily vaccines). In 2013, I published a peer-reviewed article entitled “Influenza Vaccines: Time for a Rethink” by invitation of the editor-in-chief of JAMA Internal Medicine, a professor of medicine at U.C. San Francisco, based on being considered an “expert in the field.”

3. I, Thomas Jefferson, hold an MD degree and am a Fellow of Faculty of Public Health in the United Kingdom and a Member of Royal College of General Practitioners. I am a Senior Clinical Tutor at the University of Oxford. My specialty is analyzing evidence-based medicine and bias in drug and vaccines testing. I am the lead author of Cochrane reviews on influenza vaccines, and have published widely on the topic of influenza vaccines, other vaccines, and public health. (Attached as Exhibit B is a copy of my CV.) I started my health care career as a general practitioner (1980–1985 and 1999-2001), trained in public health in 1986 and obtained a MSc and Fellowship of Faculty of Public Health, as well as a diploma in Health Economics. I have been a contributor to The Cochrane Collaboration for over 20 years and am an author and editor for the Cochrane Acute Respiratory Infections (ARI) Group and a member of other Cochrane Groups. I have experience in synthetizing data from both large pharmaceutical and RWE data sets, both within formal studies and raw data. I have worked in vaccines, antivirals, infectious disease agents, neurodegenerative diseases, diabetic drugs, and different devices in classes IIb and III in a variety of designs (such as trials, economic evaluations, meta-analyses and epidemiological studies) and the use of regulatory evidence in Cochrane reviews. My work is cited in the James Lind Library. I am a member of the Italian MoH NITAG (national independent technical advisory group) on vaccines and a founder of the Brighton Collaboration, an international network of researchers developing standardized reporting of potential vaccines' harms.

4. I, Peter Gøtzsche, am a medical doctor and Doctor of Medical Science. I have been involved in medical research and the evaluation of medical research for 45 years. In 1993, I co-founded the Cochrane Collaboration which is a collaborative effort by patients, scientists, and researchers around the world to evaluate medical research to assist patients, health professionals, and policy makers to make better decisions. During the twenty-five years I worked with the Cochrane Collaboration, for which I was the Director of the Nordic Cochrane Centre, the group has published about 10,000 systematic reviews or protocols for upcoming reviews on the benefits and harms of interventions used in healthcare. In 2010, I became Professor of Clinical Research Design and Analysis at the University of Copenhagen. In 2018, I founded the Institute for Scientific Freedom where I continue with the same kind of work that I performed at the Cochrane Collaboration. (A copy of my CV with a list of books, book chapters and publications are attached as Exhibit C.) I am the author of seven books since 2007, the first of which is Rational Diagnosis and Treatment: Evidence-based Clinical Decision-making (4th ed.). One of my most recent books, published in 2020, and the one which is most relevant to the issues in this case, is titled Vaccines: Truths, Lies and Controversy. The book was published by People's Press in Denmark; will be published by Skyhorse in New York in 2021; and will appear in many languages. The book has a chapter on the influenza vaccines, and specifically reviews the evidence of its benefits and harms.

5. I, Carl Heneghan, am a registered medical doctor in the United Kingdom and am on the specialist register as a general practitioner since 2005. I hold a DPhil and I am Professor of Evidence Based Medicine at the University of Oxford. I have 25 years' experience as a clinical epidemiologist with expertise in evidence-based medicine, research methods, and evidence synthesis. I have over 400 peer-reviewed publications (current H index 70); published 95 systematic reviews and am currently Editor in Chief of BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine, contact editor in the Cochrane Acute Respiratory Infection group, and Editor of the Catalogue of Bias. My work includes investigating drugs and devices, advising governments on regulatory evidence, assessing health claims, and research on common presenting conditions in primary care, including work on acute respiratory infections. I am a clinical advisor to two UK All Parliamentary Party Groups on Surgical Mesh and Hormone Pregnancy Tests, an adviser to the WHO clinical trials registry platform and a founder of the AllTrials campaign; three times I have been voted one of the top 100 NHS clinical leaders by the Health Service Journal. In 2018, I was awarded National Institute for Health Research Senior Investigator status (Senior Investigators are among the most prominent and prestigious researchers funded by the NIHR and the most outstanding leaders of patient and people-based research within the NIHR research community). In 2019, I received a lifetime achievement award from Oxford's Medical Science Division for my sustained commitment to education and teaching. I am Director of the Centre for Evidence-Based Medicine (CEBM), which builds capacity through teaching and training activities. I teach undergraduates, postgraduates, and teachers of EBM, and I am Director of Programs in Evidence-Based Health Care. (Attached as Exhibit D is a copy of my CV.)

THE “FLU”

7. The Massachusetts Department of Public Health repeatedly refers to influenza vaccines as an approach for dealing with the “flu.” However, most cases of the “flu,” respiratory infections and illnesses, are not caused by influenza virus but rather by other viruses.⁵ Every year, hundreds of thousands of respiratory specimens are tested across the United States and, on average, only 16% are found to be influenza positive.⁶ Other viruses, e.g., adenoviruses, respiratory syncytial virus, rhinoviruses, and coronaviruses, cause a clinically indistinguishable disease all known colloquially as “flu.” Hence, the influenza vaccine, even if it were a 100% effective product, could only address a small fraction of the “flu” cases in Massachusetts as it does not and cannot address the other viruses.

THE INFLUENZA VACCINE

8. There is no single “influenza vaccine.” There are a wide range of distinct products, produced by different manufacturers, each with different ingredients, manufacturing facilities, and safety and efficacy profiles that regulators need to evaluate prior to initial approval and licensing each year.

⁵ See <https://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/epdf/10.1111/irv.12789>; see also <https://academic.oup.com/ajcp/article/147/1/43/2697603>.

⁶ Doshi P. Influenza: marketing vaccine by marketing disease. BMJ 2013;346:f3037. <https://www.bmjjournals.org/content/346/bmj.f3037>.

9. Not only is each influenza vaccine a unique product, the process for culturing the influenza virus and creating the vaccines results in variations from year to year, batch to batch, and potentially even from dose to dose. This is because, unlike drugs that are made from a consistent small molecule, these products are biologics produced using biological material. Each brand of influenza vaccine also changes each year to target strains of influenza virus expected to be in circulation in the coming season. The influenza vaccine is therefore not a single, unchanging product over time, but rather differs from year to year, product to product, and batch to batch.

10. One implication of this is that, once a given product is licensed, new formulations of that product (annually produced) are allowed on the market each year without knowing their efficacy or safety profile. Performance in a given season can only be discovered after the fact (i.e., after the season has ended).

NO EVIDENCE THAT INFLUENZA VACCINES PREVENT TRANSMISSION OF INFLUENZA

11. The Cochrane Collaboration, considered an independent scientific body, conducts systematic reviews of all the best available scientific studies to assess the current state of the science on questions of interest. Its partners and funders include the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH), the World Health Organization (WHO), national health agencies, and leading medical universities from around the globe.⁷ The process of conducting a systematic review involves a systematic, thorough search, and critical assessment of all relevant articles on a given clinical topic. Systematic reviews are a methodology for reducing bias when appraising the scientific literature and help protect against “cherry picking.” Systematic reviews are widely regarded as the most trustworthy sources of information, sitting atop the Evidence-Based Medicine pyramid.⁸

12. In 2010, Cochrane published a systematic review entitled “Vaccines for preventing influenza in healthy adults” which, after a review of the published randomized clinical trials and comparative studies for the influenza vaccine, “found no evidence that vaccines prevent viral transmission” of influenza.⁹ In 2014, Cochrane updated this systematic review with 41 new trials and in 2018 it updated it again with 52 additional trials comprising over 80,000 additional individuals.¹⁰ These updates did not change the conclusion reached in 2010 that there is no evidence that influenza vaccines prevent viral transmission of influenza.

13. In 2018, Cochrane conducted the same systematic review of all published clinical trials and studies with regard to children entitled “Vaccines for preventing influenza in healthy children.”¹¹ It concluded that “we could find no convincing evidence that vaccines can reduce ... community transmission of influenza.”¹²

NO RELIABLE EVIDENCE THAT INFLUENZA VACCINES PREVENT HOSPITALIZATIONS AND DEATH

14. Randomized clinical trials have not demonstrated that administration of influenza vaccines reduces the risk of hospitalization or mortality, something demonstrated clearly by the Cochrane review on this topic.¹³ These trials were conducted prospectively and were randomized, hence reducing the potential bias. There have been a number of observational studies (studies that looked retrospectively at historical data, generally from medical claims databases) that were not randomized, and hence highly susceptible to bias, which indicated influenza vaccines lowered the rate of hospitalization. These observational studies are unreliable and inconsistent with the well-controlled clinical trials which have not demonstrated any such reduction. Many of them have reported a dramatic and totally implausible efficacy of influenza vaccines (one famous one¹⁴ reported influenza vaccines reduced all deaths by half – not just influenza-associated deaths, but all deaths). Such results have long been criticized as plainly implausible,¹⁵ and a variety of studies have been conducted to understand how these analyses could arrive at such unbelievable results.¹⁶

15. In 2018, the Cochrane review of influenza vaccines in healthy children reached the conclusion that “at present we could find no convincing evidence that vaccines can reduce mortality, hospital admissions, serious complications, or community transmission of influenza.”¹⁷ As for adults, in 2018 Cochrane concluded that “We found low-certainty evidence that hospitalisation rates and time off work may be comparable between vaccinated and unvaccinated adults, although the confidence interval around the effect for hospital admission is wide and there was substantial variation in the direction of effect on time off work.”¹⁸ In other words, there was no compelling evidence of demonstrating benefit in a reduction in hospital admission or time off work, and Cochrane recommended that a sufficiently large, “publicly funded, high-quality, placebo-controlled trial run over several seasons should be undertaken.”¹⁹ Other systematic reviews focusing on randomized controlled trials have reached similar conclusions regarding the lack of a reduction in hospitalization and mortality from influenza vaccines. For example, a non-Cochrane systematic review published in The Lancet Infectious Diseases concluded that the “[e]vidence for protection in adults aged 65 years or older is lacking.”²⁰

16. In addition to the lack of credible evidence demonstrating any ability to prevent hospitalization and death, there are randomized trials which report findings that raise questions about the ability of influenza vaccines to increase risk of non-influenza flu-like symptoms; in one such study, conducted by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the authors write: “During the 1997-1998 influenza season, vaccine recipients reported significantly more ILI-related [ILI = influenza like illness] sick days, lost workdays, and lost work hours for physician visits than placebo recipients.”²¹ The fact that the vaccine group in a randomized trial fared worse than the placebo group underscores the unpredictability of effects.

INFLUENZA VACCINES CAN CAUSE SERIOUS HARM

17. While influenza vaccines are often portrayed as risk free, no medical intervention is risk free, and serious adverse events linked to influenza vaccine have occurred. In general, the evidence base on harms from influenza vaccines can be characterized as largely inadequate, leaving great uncertainty about the benefit/harms profile, particularly in children.

18. Part of the reason for this lack of certainty is that harms from influenza vaccines are not adequately studied. For example, while Cochrane explained that “influenza vaccines were associated with serious harms such as narcolepsy and febrile convulsions,” it surprisingly found:

...only one safety study of inactivated vaccine in children under 2 years, carried out nearly 30 years ago in 35 children (ab Wright 1976a). The lack of safety data for inactive vaccines in younger children is particularly surprising given that the inactive vaccine is now recommended for healthy children six months and older in the USA and Canada (AAPCID 2004; Harper 2004; Orr 2004).²²

²⁰ <https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/22032844/>.

²¹ <https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/11015795/>.

The Cochrane report also highlights a number of other issues. For many studies, adverse events are not adequately described or reported. Many important adverse events in part lack a more robust evidence base for lack of standardized ways of measuring adverse events, a point raised in other safety reviews.²³ For some influenza vaccines, manufacturers refused to provide all data regarding harms. Adverse events also tend to be actively monitored for only a short period of time, relying on passive data collection methods for detecting adverse events after a brief initial period.

19. Also consider events that occurred during the last pandemic a decade ago, with two “swine flu” H1N1 vaccines in 2009-10, vaccines for which heightened surveillance was put in place. That influenza season would witness the following, as one of us wrote about in JAMA Internal Medicine: “Australia suspended its universal vaccination program for children younger than 5 years because of a surge in febrile convulsions following vaccination (1 in 110 children).²⁴

20. In terms of the potential for injury from the influenza vaccine, it is worth noting that in the last ten years, the Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System (VAERS), administered by the CDC and FDA, has received reports of the following serious events following receipt of an influenza vaccine: 1,527 deaths; 3,327 permanent disabilities; 12,692 hospitalizations; and 40,040 emergency room and/or medical office visits.²⁵ A report from researchers at Harvard Medical School, including the Director of Bioinformatics, funded by the Agency for Health Research and

Quality, an agency within the United States Department of Health and Human Services, stated that “fewer than 1% of vaccine adverse events are reported” to VAERS.²⁶

21. Influenza vaccines represent 50% (3,852) of the 7,705 compensated claims (10/01/1988 through 09/01/2020),²⁷ for which damages have been paid out by the Vaccine Injury Compensation Program, administered in the United States Court of Federal Claims.²⁸ The injuries for which this compensation has been paid for claims of injury from the influenza vaccine include: Acute Disseminated Encephalomyelitis (ADEM), Anaphylaxis (severe allergic reaction), Axonal Polyneuropathy, Bell’s Palsy, Cellulitis, Chronic Inflammatory Demyelinating Polyneuropathy (CIDP), Clinically Isolated Syndrome (CIS), Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS), Cardiac Arrest, Death, Fibromyalgia, Guillain-Barre Syndrome (GBS), Insomnia, Multiple Sclerosis (MS), Motor Neuropathy, Optic Neuritis, Parsonage-Turner Syndrome (brachial neuritis), Postural orthostatic tachycardia syndrome (POTS), Sensory Polyneuropathy, Shoulder Injury Related to Vaccine Administration (SIRVA), Small Fiber Neuropathy, Stevens Johnson Syndrome (SJS), Subcutaneous Abscess, Transverse Myelitis (TM), Vasovagal Syncpe.²⁹

22. We are not drawing conclusions regarding the causal role of the vaccine in the VAERS reports or federal court compensation cases, nor do we know the frequency of each type of adverse event in the population as such conclusions cannot be made without further study. Instead, we highlight them to indicate the scale of such reports and the need for more rigorous study of influenza vaccine safety.

UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES AND NON-SPECIFIC EFFECTS

23. In addition to potential injuries, the influenza vaccine can have other unintended consequences: so-called “off-target” or “nonspecific effects.” This section outlines a few of these nonspecific effects.

24. An important nonspecific effect of influenza vaccine is that it may increase susceptibility to other influenza like illnesses. For example, a study from researchers at the University of Hong Kong, Queen Mary Hospital, and Centre for Influenza Research compared children receiving the influenza vaccine with those receiving a saline injection in a prospective randomized double-blind study.³⁰ Both groups had a statistically similar rate of influenza, but the group receiving the influenza vaccine had a statistically significant 4.4 times increased risk of non-influenza infections. Thus, the influenza vaccine appears to have increased these children’s susceptibility to other respiratory viral infections.

25. Rigorous observational studies also suggest that influenza vaccination may increase the risk of non-influenza respiratory viruses or novel influenza viruses, not covered in that year’s vaccine.³¹

26. There is also evidence for cohort, or year of birth, effects in influenza mortality, which have in particular been noticed during pandemics.³² The difference in survival rates depends on the experience individuals have in surviving influenza infection, which generates robust and long-lived immune memory. These individuals, upon reencountering an influenza viral strain in old age for which they previously developed immunity, enjoy immunological memory to these strains. In contrast, it is well established that influenza vaccines do not provide long-lived immunity conferred by natural infection and, moreover, influenza vaccines' very modest efficacy is even poorer for the elderly. The combination of these considerations can make a reasonable case that, given what we currently know about the disease and influenza vaccines, arguably the most effective strategy for an individual is to experience some influenza infection as a healthy adult, when the risk of complications is very low, thus generating a better immunity portfolio against influenza in old age, a time when the risk of complications is much higher.

CONCLUSION

27. While the harms from influenza vaccines are typically understated or not properly studied, the benefits of influenza vaccines are exaggerated, often contrary to the scientific findings, or simply asserted without evidence. It is unfortunate that public health officials justify their policies and statements regarding the influenza vaccine through selective citations of the evidence base rather than conclusions reached after systematic and thorough review of the reliable evidence.³³

28. For the avoidance of doubt, we are not against any individual receiving the influenza vaccine and in this affidavit we have not provided any opinion regarding other vaccines.

29. Rather, it is our collective scientific view that before a product is recommended to a patient, let alone mandated to a patient, there should be clear evidence to support the recommendation. There should be rigorous placebo-controlled, randomized trials that have demonstrated that influenza vaccines prevent transmission and reduce hospitalizations, ICU admissions, or mortality. Ideally, there should be at least two such trials, publicly funded, and run over multiple influenza seasons with multiple different influenza vaccines. Unfortunately, the reality is that, despite influenza vaccines being recommended since 1960, not a single placebo-controlled randomized trial was ever set up to study whether the vaccine carries any of these potential benefits. The proven benefits should also be large enough that it can be confidently judged that influenza vaccines will bring public health benefits in excess of any harms. The history of influenza vaccines does not support this premise.³⁴

³⁴ It is also troubling to mandate a product whose safety and efficacy remain untested due to its reformulation every year and hence is effectively a new product every year, in addition to variations between products and lots of each influenza vaccine product.

RECENT and PRESENT ACTIVITIES

Until November 2019 I provided scientific supervision for the Agenas (Agenzia per i Servizi Sanitari Regionali) HTA programme for non-pharmaceuticals. Agenas is an agency of the Italian MoH. Part of my work entailed supervising a group of 10 researchers and taking responsibility for designing, devising and carrying out HTA and Horizon Scanning assessments. I was scientific lead for the European EUNeHTA Joint Action 2 (Workpackage 4 – devices and diagnostics) project (2012-2015, see below). The EUNeHTA Collaboration is a network of European public agencies producing structured HTA information for national use. In 2021 the Collaboration should become a permanent network funded by the Commission. I was also scientific coordinator for Workpackage 4 which assessed non pharmaceutical interventions, such as in vitro tests. This involved coordinating some 70 researchers from 28 agencies from 23 countries (from Estonia to Bulgaria, to Greece and Sweden). The project started in 2012 and was completed in 2015. I carried out the same role for the previous EUNeHTA project (Joint Action 1 or JA1 with the European Commission). Until November 2019 I was a member of two different workpackages and a reviewer for two projects in these workpackages as part of the EUNeHTA JA3.

I co-developed a methodology for synthetising evidence of effectiveness, efficiency, safety and resource utilisation using regulatory information and data from different sources, both regulatory and open source. This activity was initially funded by NIHR UK until mid-2015, then the Cochrane Methods Innovations Fund (MIF), NIHR again and since 2016 the Cochrane Nordic Centre. The MIF project was a collaboration to draft advice of when and how to include regulatory material in Cochrane reviews.

I am developing this work further by streamlining the use of regulatory data and its incorporation into user friendly, timely reviews.

As part of a team in the Nordic Cochrane Centre we carried out a systematic review of HPV vaccines based on regulatory documents. The evidence set for the review was assembled by us from a variety of sources into an Index of the human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine industry clinical study programmes and non-industry funded studies, shortly to be published. At present we are developing the same reviews further with the complete regulatory dataset released by Health Canada after a court case.

Since 2015 I am a Fellow of the Centre for Evidence Based Medicine of the University of Oxford, in the UK. I am now Senior Clinical Tutor on the Complex Reviews Module of the MSc in Evidence Based Health course.

I am visiting Professor Visiting Professor Institute of Health & Society at the Faculty of Medicine of Newcastle University (2019-2021).

With the 3 other Cochrane colleagues I am a co-investigator in a John and Laura Arnold Foundation grant for development of a RIAT support centre (2017-2020).

RIAT stands for Restoring Invisible and Abandoned Trials. In short, RIAT is a mechanism that enables researchers to address two long-standing problems in the medical literature: non-publication of trials and misreporting. Our concept was first outlined here: <http://www.bmjjournals.org/content/346/bmj.f2865>

The RIAT Support Center will help accelerate the correction of the scientific record of clinical trials by making it more accurate and more complete.

Finally, with the help of the Cochrane Central Editorial Unit we stabilised of our three long-standing influenza vaccine reviews. These were released in January 2018.

My activity line of regulatory data started with updating of Cochrane review A159 (Neuraminidase Inhibitors for influenza). A159 is currently based exclusively on regulatory information (essentially clinical study reports - CSRs from EMA and comments by FDA and PMDA - about 150K pages in all).

The story is told in:

The pioneers of transparency. BMJ 2015;350:g7717 (Published 02 Jan 2015)

I was a member of EMA's Clinical Trials Advisory Group 2 (CTAG2).

I am on the editorial board of BMJ Evidence Based Medicine (BMJ EBM).

I am an unpaid collaborator to the project Beyond Transparency in Pharmaceutical Research and Regulation led by Dalhousie University and funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (2018-2022).

I currently teach on the Complex Reviews module of the MSc in Evidence Based Health Care at Oxford University and currently supervising to MSc students. This involves reviews of regulatory data, economic studies, diagnostic studies, qualitative studies and IPI meta-analyses.

I am a member of the WHO Infection Prevention and Control Research and Development Expert Group for COVID-19.

PAST CONSULTANCIES AND OTHER ACTIVITIES

In the past I have carried out research for the Ministry of Defence UK (suite of Cochrane reviews on viral and arthropod borne fevers prevention), NICE (HTA of zanamivir for influenza), Roche (the economics of antivirals neuraminidase inhibitors), EU (systematic review of evidence of safety of MMR vaccines and of the economics of pneumococcal vaccines), WHO (systematic review of evidence of safety of Hepatitis B vaccines), Glaxo SmithKline (systematic review of evidence of safety and effectiveness of DPT vaccines), Sanofi- Synhtelabo (Development of Pleconaril), Istituto Superiore di Sanita' and ASSR (now Agenas), (coordinator of the national clinical guidelines project) (see below), Netherlands Health Council (safety of Hepatitis B vaccine update review), IMS Health

(Antidiabetic drugs) the Piemonte Region of Northern Italy (suite of Cochrane reviews on influenza vaccines), Agenzia di Sanita' Pubblica Lazio - Public Health Agency of Lazio Region (guidelines implementation trial project and coordination of a two cluster randomised trials of guidelines implementation, on behalf of the UK's Technology Assessment Programme) I updated two reviews on the effects of editorial peer review. I have been involved in a 5 year update and rewrite of his Cochrane review on Neuraminidase Inhibitors exclusively based on regulatory information. (HTA – 10/80/01 Update and amalgamation of two Cochrane Reviews: neuraminidase inhibitors for preventing and treating influenza in healthy adults and children—<http://www.nets.nihr.ac.uk/projects/hta/108001>).

I am a member of the editorial base of the Cochrane Acute Respiratory Infections Group. Reviewer, Cochrane Infectious Diseases, Acute Respiratory Infections, Hepato-biliary, Airways and Colorectal Cancer Groups.

Director, Health Reviews Ltd, my own company.

Member, editorial, board of Recenti Progressi in Medicina and BMC Health Services Research.

Peer reviewer for BMJ, Lancet, JAMA, JAMA Internal Medicine, CMAJ, New England Journal of Medicine, Vaccine and Canadian Coordinating Office for Health Technology Assessment (CCOHTA) Emerging Technology bulletins.

I am an Academic Editor, PLOS ONE (2013-17) and have been a contributor to Last's Dictionary of Epidemiology (4th edition).

I do anonymous market access consultancy interviews for various pharmaceutical companies.

Between 1996 and 2009 I was the Co-ordinator of the Cochrane Vaccines Field and 1999 and 2012 I was honorary Research Fellow at the UK Cochrane Centre.

In 2011-13, I acted as an expert witness in a litigation case related to the antiviral oseltamivir, in two litigation cases on potential vaccine-related damage and in a labour case on influenza vaccines in healthcare workers in Canada. In 2016-17 I was a member of an independent data monitoring committee for a Sanofi Pasteur clinical trial on an influenza vaccine and a member of three advisory boards for Boehringer Ingelheim (on bronchodilator drug), Takeda (cardiovascular drug) and Bayer (blood replacement).

As part of my HTA activity I have interviewed, collaborated and interacted with scores of clinicians in both primary and hospital care both in Italy and the rest of Europe. Over the past thirty years, I have worked in most therapeutic and prevention areas. Also as part of my Italian HTA and scientific activity I have interacted with patient organisations and have considerable knowledge of the regional Italian structure and its workings thanks to my role as consultant to Agenas.

The HTA report output is accessible at: <https://www.agenas.gov.it/aree-tematiche/hta-health-technology-assessment/attivita-hta/report-hta>

The Horizon scanning output is accessible at: <https://www.agenas.gov.it/aree-tematiche/hta-health-technology-assessment/hs-horizon-scanning/report-hs>

Since 2017 I am a member of the Italian MoH National Immunisation Technical Advisory Group (NITAG).
