Good morning Colin –

We have completed our review of emails with the parameters set forth below.

There is only one email chain that is responsive, however we believe it is protected by attorney-client privilege.

I'm happy to provide you more context so you can consider our claim of privilege. While the additional information is provided herein in a generalized sense, MMH does not waive its privilege.

This email chain began on October 14, 2021, from our Public Relations Manager to Executive Staff, which includes me as the General Counsel. There was an unfortunate draping incident by an unaffiliated hospital located in Odessa, Texas. The crux of the email was to discuss the other hospital's actions, ensure MMH has no such similar policy and consider the legal ramifications of such.

I hope this satisfies your inquiry.

Please let me know if you have any questions.
