Thank you so much. Very useful comments . I will surely utilise resources suggested . Most of these countries of Europe will be invited to these workshop followed by in country workshops. IPA have strategic interest in Europe and Dr.Alden our next IPA president have a systematic plan to involve European Pediatric Societies .
I look forward for your continuous guidance.
regards
Naveen

Dear Naveen:

I am delighted to see the evidence of an IPA project on vaccine hesitancy. In my old age I have been plunged into this area because of a traumatic experience involving an American lawyer. I am working with manufacturers and the FDA on changes to the package inserts to provide more information on vaccine safety, currently lacking. Also, with Paul Offit, we have set up a library at Philadelphia Children's Hospital with a collection of the best scientific references on vaccine safety. This is available to any clinician or expert defending vaccines. It is reachable through <http://vaccine.chop.edu/safety-references> You may wish to make this known to others.

I note the Delhi and Panama meetings with pleasure, but I do have a comment: Vaccine hesitancy has not so far been a problem in Latin America. Perversely, the biggest problem lies in Europe. I don't know where the IPA holds sway, but I urge it to think of organizing a meeting on the European continent. The problem is greatest in France, Italy, the Ukraine and some other Eastern European countries.

Good luck for your work in this important area.

Kind regards,

Stanley
